

Abstract of the Disclosure

This invention relates to methods in immunohistochemistry which preserve and/or maintain the quality and content of RNA during immunohistochemical staining. More specifically this invention relates to methods which preserve the quality and content of RNA during immunohistochemical staining for Laser Capture Microdissection of samples followed by analysis of RNA.